

Abstract

[0021] Protective boot comprising bellows (1) and a bushing (2), in particular for power transmission systems in a vehicle. The bellows (1) and the bushing (2) are so constructed and connected to one another that their connection remains tight independent of loading and long-term influences.